[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO NOVEMBER 3.

Explosive Bullets.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The journals of Paris announce that the Bavarian prisoners captured in encounters with the investing force were found to have explosive bullets in their possession. The fact was duly witnessed for the purpose of calling to it the attention of the civilized world.

French Official Dispatches.

TOURS, Nov. 2.—The Government is in receipt of advices from Paris to October 28th. The Prussians had resumed in force some of the positions they had previously abandoned. From others they had been dislodged after hard fighting, and Parisians held those points and were fortifying them. Garibaldi's headquarters are at Aflauges In encounters with the enemy near Beaucon he captured over one thousand prisoners.

Preparations to Bombard Paris.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A telegram from Versailles furnishes details of the preparations being made by the Prussians for an attack on the forts around Paris, which are as follows: The besiegers possess one hundred and eighty guns, mounted on field carriages, and not on platforms behind their earthworks. The heaviest of these throw seventy pound shells. Many others only throw twelve pound projectiles. They have besides, two mortars throwing two hundred pound shells. The range of the batteries of St Cloud and Chaveches is from three to five kilometres, and can reach as far west and southeast as the curtains of Mont Valerien, the range of those at Meudon, Bois de Meudon and Clermont, is from two to five kilometres, and will reach Forts Issy and Vanvres.

There are no German troops on the peninsula of Genevilliers. It is wholly occupied by the French who have completed strong works, Courbevoire, Colombes and Genevilliers, by filling up the gap between Mont Valerien and St. Denis. The nearest German works to those posts are at Haulles, Chatean and Carriere St. Denis, between Mont Valerien and Fort D'Issy. The French have completed arming and are occupying five strong forts at Molart, Boisgue, Beliaucourt, Fort Du Jour and Moliueaux. The French forts are armed with six and a-half and seven and a-half, and nine and ten inch guns, ranging from 7,925 to 9,000 yards, throwing from 75 pound to 200 pound shells. The Prussian batteries at Clermont and Meudon are subject to a double fine of fire from the French forts. The weights and range of the French guns are greater than those of any batteries the Prussians have yet planted.

Miscellaneous.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Bavarian government has been instructed to discontinue sending reinforcements to the army around Paris.

SAARBRUCKEN, Nov. 2.—Four trains with prisoners arrived here on Sunday and Monday. Seven thousand prisoners are expected to pass through Saar Louis and 35,000 are now en route to Tours.

Bazaine, accompanied by Col. Vidite and eight other officers, arrived here on Monday.

The Prussians opened fire from their heavy guns on Neubrisatz at 7½ o'clock this morning.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—In the Cabinet Council to day a long discussion occurred in regard to Thiers' negotiations, resulting in a determination to urge Prussia to consent to an armistice without insisting on the recognition of the principle of cession of territory by France as a prerequisite.

A special from Brussels says Metz is inaccessible. No one has been allowed to enter. The Echo de Luxembourg says the garrison refused to recognize the capitulation, and encounters with the German garrison are taking place.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A correspondent of the Tribune at Garibaldi's headquarters telegraphs on the 1st that Prussians made a demand on Dijon for half a million francs security and provisions for the maintenance of 30,000 men. A strong body of troops is now moving on Lyons. A force of 15,000 cavalry passed to day near Genlis, where we were yesterday. We hold our position. Italian and Gaenese troops are arriving.

SAARBRUCKEN, Oct. 31.—Metz is entirely occupied by the Prussians. The conduct of the inhabitants toward the soldiers is good. A strong Prussian party exists in the town.

TOURS, Nov. 2.—Rumors of the capitulation of Bazaine were circulated in Paris on 27th, and created intense agitation. The Combat, Felix Pyat's newspaper, charged the Government with knowing the fact and withholding it from the public. The citizens became incensed and destroyed all the copies of Pyat's journal they could find, and sought to arrest the editor. The Journal Officiel has published an indignant denial, the Government not deeming it possible that Bazaine would betray the trust. Nothing official has been received from the army of the Loire.

Advices from Paris are to the 29th ult. Three hundred breech-loading cannon have been constructed and presented to the Government by private citizens.

SAARBRUCKEN, Oct. 31.—Metz is entirely occupied by the Prussians. The conduct of the inhabitants toward the soldiers is good. Not more than ten persons are allowed together in the streets. Private property will be respected by the Prussians. It is reported that provisions were found sufficient to last the garrison six months.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Tribune's correspondent at Paris says it is impossible to make out whether the Prussians mean bombardment or not, and says the National Guard is not worth their salt. In the last sorties they had fifty thousand men and would not stand against eight thousand. They fought well at first, but soon fled. The city ought to be impregnable, but it is doubtful if the men will fight.

DOOMED PARIS—HORRORS IN RESERVE—EFFECT OF PRUSSIAN SHELLS.—I saw, from the outside, the fire that was kept up against Strasburg during the few days that preceded its fall. Le Courrier du Bas Rhin, which was published until the very day on which the white flag was hoisted, gives a brief account of the effect the fire produced within. "It seemed," it says in its number for September 27, "impossible that the danger to our city could increase, or that more terrible engines of war could be employed than those which our besiegers have already brought into use. Last night, however, they proved to us that we have not yet seen the end of their resources, for they fired incendiary shells upon us from incredible distances. These shells, which generally weigh more than fifty kilogrammes (some of them weighed 150 pounds) and contain several kilogrammes of powder. They are furnished with a fuse which burns during the passage of the projectile, and makes it burst at the end. The enemy fired a certain number of these shells from Schilligheim, or from the batteries of La Rotonde, as far as the Grande Rue, the Rue du Bain aux Plantes, the Rue de la Fonturne and Des Ponts Converts. The shells were to be seen rising slowly in the air, then rushing headlong toward the ground. A frightful noise followed their fall on the houses, in which they caused terrible ravages. One of them pierced three stories and burst in the cellar; others knocked down and smashed an entire building, pulverised whatever they touched. The German newspapers spoke lately of two monster mortars, placed by the besiegers before our walls. They are evidently the two mortars which threw projectiles to a distance not hitherto attained by any artillery. Serious misfortunes marked last night and the evening that preceded it. The victims, killed and wounded are very numerous. At the Maaris-Kegaueck there was a frightful catastrophe. In the Maison Meld, situated close to the Caverne quarter, two projectiles fell almost at the same time, killing six persons and wounding twelve. In the Rou Bain aux Plantes four persons were wounded in one house. In the fauburgs there were victims, as there are every night. How long the list will be of all these ruins and all these deaths?"—Strasbourg Correspondence London Times.

In Springfield Township, La Grange county, Indiana, there is a pigeon roost, where it is estimated that at least 2,886,543,211,234,507,899 wild pigeons "come home to roost" every fall.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Address by King William.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—The following Royal Order of the Day is published this morning:

Soldiers: When, three months ago, I took the field I said God would be with our just cause. That this has been fully realized witness Woerth, Saarbrucken, Metz, Sedan, Beaumont and Strasburg, each a victory for our arms. To you belong the merit and glory. With this opportunity to thank you all, from General to soldier, whatever the future, I look to it calmly, because I know that with such soldiers victory cannot fail.

(Signed) WILLIAM.

Dispatches from Tours.

TOURS, Nov. 2.—The Provisional Government has received assuring advices from the Southern and Western Provinces of France. The people are unanimous for a continuance of the war until peace is possible on some other basis than cession of French territory.

The journals of Tours ask for official proofs of Bazaine's treasonable intentions.

The second Prussian army corps remains at Metz and before Thionville.

Gen. Lummer's corps will escort the captured French to Germany, and will remain there for guard duty.

The greater portion of the French army at Metz, under Prince Frederick Charles, will operate in Central France.

Dispatches via London.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Thiers was admitted to audience with the King of Prussia. The conference lasted three hours.

A military council was held at Versailles on Wednesday forenoon, to which Bismarck participated. In the afternoon, Thiers was closeted with Bismarck a long time. It is reported that Thiers has proposed at Versailles an armistice on the basis suggested by the British ministry, and the proposition will be, if it has not already been, accepted by Prussia. Thiers expressed great satisfaction with the course pursued by England.

The last English and American families which will be permitted to leave Paris, take their departure this morning. At last advices Washburne was preparing to come out.

King William has issued an order congratulating his army on their victories.

Bismarck, replying to Granville's offer of mediation, through Count Bernstorff, Prussian Minister to London, says there will be no obstacle offered by him to French elections for members of the Legislative Assembly, but the consent of the French Provisional Government is wanting. He fears that Paris, misinterpreting England's motive in offering to mediate, is thereby encouraged to prolong resistance. He declares that Prussia is willing to receive and earnestly consider any proposition from France which seems to carry with it a genuine desire for peace.

Prussians have commenced moving northward from Soissons. A body of horse is reported at Harcop, in the Province of Aisne.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—No disturbance at Metz since capitulation. Reports that the garrison and town refused to surrender, had their origin in a plot by the citizens, and those soldiers who were not satisfied with the turn of affairs, to seize arms in the arsenals and make forcible resistance to the entry of Prussians. The consummation of the design was prevented by the Imperial Guard. Gen. Montauffel is to command the First Prussian Army Corps.

The French had only 2,100 prisoners on their hands at noon on the 1st.

Bazaine's Treachery.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 3.—The Independance Belge says: "We daily receive visits from escaped officers of Bazaine's army, and their testimony is conclusive as to the treachery of their commander."

The municipal officers of Metz have issued an address to the inhabitants exhorting them to patience under misfortunes for which they are not responsible. The country and history will exonerate the people from any charge of ignominy of surrender.

Terms of Capitulation of Metz.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Journal prints a supplementary agreement in regard to the capitulation of Metz, by which the Prussians grant the right to the French civil officials to remove or remain at their option, undisturbed in person or property. None of the inhabitants, either in their civil or military capacity, are to be interfered or held responsible for any previous acts, or for their political opinions. The sick and wounded are to have every care, and families of officers are not to be molested in any of their rights. Public property, moneys and papers are to have protection. The mode of disposing of wounded prisoners is also prescribed.

Capture of Lyons.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 3.—The Prussian forces which operated against Lyons, met with an obstinate resistance before the town. They captured the heights on which the French were posted, when the latter retreated, and on the next day the authorities surrendered.

There is nothing of interest in the military reports from Paris.

It is alleged that Russia is apprehensive of a revival of Polish nationality under Prussian protection.

EASTERN STATES.

Washington City.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—It is believed by those intimate with the President that he has determined to appoint Gen. Schenck Minister to England. It is asserted that the position was offered by letter to that gentleman yesterday.

Senators Morton and Thayer had a long conference with the President yesterday in reference to the impending elections.

The President states that he does not at present propose to publish the correspondence in relation to the retirement of Secretary Cox.

New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The raid upon illicit distilleries in the 5th ward of Brooklyn yesterday was a most decisive affair. As the posse approached one of the largest distilleries in the vicinity, surrounded by fences, a heavy fire of pistols, guns and iron bolts was received from roofs in the vicinity. The officers kept close to the fence while the men pulled it down, and with bayonets lowered charged on the mob, which retired into adjoining back yards, where from every position of advantage they could gain they showered down a hail storm of improvised projectiles. This fence was torn down by order of Col Broome, Commander of the Marines, and the troops renewed their charge, driving the rioters' crowd into still another inclosure, from which they were in driven at point of the bayonet. In each of the assaults the Marines were exposed to a heavy fire, which did but little injury, the mob not feeling their position sufficiently secure to justify them in stopping to take deliberate aim.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Emil Hirsch, bookkeeper for Conn, Martin & Co., shot himself through the head this morning at Astor Block, Sacramento street. His books are all right. He left no letters behind, but a pile of tickets in the Mercantile lottery, Hunt's house lottery and poker checks told the story, and obviated the necessity of an explanation. He was unmarried but has relatives in the State.

In the United States court to-day Z. Allen, mate of the ship Marie Hoen, was fined $10 for beating and abusing the sailor Blake, who finally drowned himself or was thrown overboard. The Judge was very severe on the United States Consul at Callao, who sent the matter here for trial and let the Captain, who was the greater culprit, go.

The steamer Commodore, which was sunk near the mouth of the San Joaquin two years since, and since raised, went ashore at the mouth of the Coquille river, Oct. 22, and is a total loss. Hands saved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Lovejoy, telegraph operator at Petaluma, to-day discovered that he held a ticket which had drawn a prize of $750, a fact he had overlooked up to this time.

The Colorado to-day carried three hundred thousand dollars for Callao, and merchandize to New York valued at $9,000, including 845,000 pounds of wool.

Mrs. Martha J. Wilkinson, of White Rock Spring, Sacramento county, won the twenty thousand dollar prize.

The Alpine Mining Company, to operate in Alpine county, California, capital stock $1,000,000, was incorporated to-day.

Young Hirsch, book keeper for Cohn, Martin & Co., who shot himself this morning, breathed his last at 4 P. M. It appears he had lost some $2,900 in mining stocks but went into the mercantile lottery under the firm impression that he was bound to win a fortune. Yesterday he told a friend that a man who could not win at a lottery might as well be dead at once. He had a mind to go and shoot himself. His accounts were all correct and he had used no money but his own.

A frightful tragedy, involving many persons directly or indirectly, and calling up many painful remembrances of past times, occurred here this evening. A. P. Crittenden, the well known lawyer, nephew of the statesman John J. Crittenden, had been over to Oakland to meet his wife and children, who were returning from the East where they had spent the summer. They were aboard the steamer El Capitan, about half way back, when the notorious Mrs. Laura or Laurence Fair, approached them and said to him, "You son of a ——, you have been the ruin of me and my daughter," and drew a Sharp's four-shooter and shot him through the breast, inflicting what is supposed to be a mortal wound. She fired but one shot, but instantly passed the pistol, a new one, evidently never before used, to a friend, who attempted to throw it overboard, but was prevented. She was arrested by Crittenden's son and the Captain of the steamer, and given in charge of Captain Kentzel of the harbor police, at the wharf. She is now in the calaboose, awaiting the result of the wound inflicted. Crittenden is at his house, the surgeon searching for the ball. Mrs. Fair's first husband committed suicide here some years since. She shot a man at Virginia City during the war for raising the American flag over her hotel, and Crittenden defended her. Their friendship continued until recently, when he determined to bring his family back here. She is now married to a man named Snyder, and has a young child. A divorce suit is pending between her and her present husband. She was upon the stage here and in Sacramento some years since, but had no great success as an actress.

Mining Stocks.

The sales of stocks at the afternoon board foot up 817 shares. This is the smallest work done at any session for years. Treasure, 6¼; Eureka, (consolidated,) 1½; Chariot, 42½; Jacket, 27½; Curry, 99; Ophir, 58; Crown Point, 3½; Valley, 21; Savage, 33¼.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

WATSONVILLE, Nov. 3.—The Nebraska Hotel was completely destroyed by fire last night. Loss about $7,000. Insured for $5,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. The adjoining buildings saved by great exertion. One man was badly burned while making his escape from the hotel. N. Giles & Co.'s furniture store was damaged by removal of furniture.

From San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 3.—The report that the Lower California Company had consolidated with the Southern Trans-Continental Railroad is confirmed.

At a mass meeting held at North San Diego, last evening, Messrs. Dodson, Pendleton, McCoy, Shade, Drake, DeJay and others, were appointed a committee on resolutions. The following were offered:

Resolved, By the citizens of San Diego in mass meeting assembled, that we congratulate ourselves and the people of southern California, on the prospects of an early completion of a work that will contribute greatly to their wealth and importance, and add materially to the prosperity of the whole southern coast of California and Mexico.

Resolved, That our thanks be tendered to the Lower California Company for their assistance in consummating this grand design.

Resolved, That we tender our warmest thanks to all who have been instrumental in fostering and encouraging this great work, and as Californians, we wish them success and prosperity in this gigantic enterprise.

NEVADA.

VIRGINIA, Nov. 3.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. Remington, an engineer, was coming up the canyon, when he was shot by a man, who was shooting pigeons in that vicinity, and pretty badly injured. No less than fifteen shot struck him in the head and face.

Officer Higbee, who was accidentally shot in the leg during riotous proceedings on the morning of the late big fire, is getting along as well as could be expected, but it will be a long time before he will be able to go on duty again.

The jury in the case of the State against the estate of E. Rhodes and his bondsmen, brought in a verdict yesterday in favor of the State of Nevada for $100,000.

FRIDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 4 1870

Growth of Cities

The census discloses the fact that a very large proportion of the increase of population in the United States since 1860 is to be credited to the larger cities Indeed in any part of the Union the rate of increase for the principal cities has generally been much more rapid than in the States at large in which they are severally situated Almost the whole increase in Massachusetts is within sight in Boston and the other larger towns of the State in Maine and New Hampshire where the aggregate population is little or no greater than in 1860 the principal towns and cities show a very considerable increase New York City has not increased its population as rapidly as during the preceding decade but its rate of growth since 1860 has been more rapid than that of the rest of the State Chicago and St Louis have grown much faster than the States of Illinois and Missouri, taken as a whole San Francisco since 1860 has far outrun the balance of California It is in part a general rule to which there will be found few or no exceptions, that population has increased faster in the cities than in the rural districts throughout the United States

This fact shows that there is a rapid drift of population from the country districts to the cities and towns This had been perceived before, but the revelations of the census now show it in all its force and significance It is now received as an established fact that owing to their greater rate of mortality large cities cannot maintain their population without being constantly fed by immigration from the country. Yet we find our large cities not only hold their own, but actually increase in population with astonishing rapidity This fact will indicate the extent of migration from the country to the cities It also confirms the theory stated by a philosophical writer of distinction that the tendency of population is from the cradles to the graves of the human race, that is from the country fields to the great cities

Statistics in England show that while the annual mortality in the rural districts is 18 in 1,000 of the whole population in the great cities it is 1 in 24. The Registrar General's returns in that country, and similar statistics elsewhere, prove that the great cities are the great charnel houses of mortality. Nowhere is this fact more apparent than in France, where the very slow increase of rural population for many years, as compared with the great increase of the cities, has been pointed at by profound thinkers as a sure precursor of national decline In the older countries the drift of population to the cities is explained in this way In the first place, the loud and menacing cry for cheap bread, by forcing an foreign importations, drives numbers into the cities as the only place where they can find means of earning a livelihood, that is, it drives them "from the cradles to the graves of the human race In the next place, the cultivation of the rural districts in old countries is now mainly turned to pasturage, and the consequence is a large migration of the inhabitants into the cities

Causes like these have not yet begun to operate to any great extent in the United States except, perhaps, in the older and more densely populated portions One reason of the rapid rate of increase in the population of our cities is found in the continued stream of foreign immigration, a large part of which is attracted to cities and large towns. But it is evident to every observer that there is a steady drift of the native population in the same direction It is one of the tendencies of modern civilization it is a feature of an age that is devoted to commerce, trade and speculations, and no doubt will continue as it has begun

Not Altogether Harmonious

There is not the best feeling among the Democracy of Portland over the manner in which the new police force is organized The 'Oro Fino Clique" have it all their own way And what makes this circumstance too galling to the other wing of the party, (who are a sort of "Young Democracy to The "Tammany" of Oro Fino), is the fact that in the last election when the Young Democracy headed by Mr R. J Ladd and the Herald had their nominations in this county the Oro Fino clique "threw off" on the ticket and allowed it to be badly beaten making no effort to elect it. It has come to be well understood that if the Oro Fino Clique are not allowed to contrive the nominations they will keep aloof from the contest and let the party be beaten, or even conspire together to beat it. The same thing was witnessed in the city elections in 1869 All this is very "grinding" to the other wing of the party And now one of the chiefs of the Oro Fino clique is put at the head of the police force and the "Young Democracy" is entirely ignored in the new arrangements. It was given out that Mr. R. J. Ladd would be appointed Chief of the Police, but all who have any acquaintance with political affairs and manipulations here knew from the beginning that the thing was set up with a view of placing Mr Lappens in that position And in this way Oro Fino gets its reward for contributing to the last two Democratic defeats

There is a fine state of feeling in the happy Democratic family It will be remembered that the Herald assailed Senator Fay during the session of the Legislature and was called to account therefor narrowly escaping a reprimand from the Senate That paper now says that those eminent Democratic Senators, Messrs Hendershott and Trevitt "disgraced" the Senate and themselves by their course during the session It charges Mr Trevitt with working for the interests of Mr Holladay inveighs against the 'foolishness of Mr Hendershott's course on the Chinese question, and insinuates in various ways that their conduct was disgraceful.' As the Herald has set out to make war on every Democrat who supported the west side subsidy bill there is likely to be a somewhat exciting time among the harmonious Democracy

The Herald tries to parry the charge relative to the swindle which the Legislature has attempted to perpetrate on the school fund, by saying that some of the parties concerned in the scheme are Republicans This if true, makes the scheme none the less a swindle That one or two of the incorporators of the lock company are Rep Ubians can make no difference in the character of this attempt to rob the school fund If they were all Republicans the nature of the transaction would still be the same It would be an outrageous swindle, no matter who might receive the benefit of it But the bill would not have passed the Legislature and received the signature of the Executive, had not the scheme been under the control of prominent Democrats including Col Kelly and John F Miller,

"Sound" Sentiments

The Ottoway Times of Illinois which is one of the following sentiments on the State ticket nominated in New York which contains extracts from the utterances of the Portland Herald on the same subject not long ago

This status should not be allowed to stand 24 hours in the Democratic city of New York While Old Abe was alive, he hated Democratic New York He sent his troops there during the riots and if he had dared he would have imprisoned half the Democrats in the city New York voted against him by an overwhelming majority The grand jumps a city discarded and denounced the rough usage with Lincoln should be and she detests his memory when dead The statesmen of the North A few pounds of powder placed behind will blow the damnable thing to atoms And we will rejoice when the telegraph brings the news that Abraham Lincoln's statue in New York is blown to pieces No that we war against a dead man but we do protest against these demonstrations in favor of a despot and a tyrant

Abe Lincoln was a despot and he met a tyrant's fate Let every Democrat resolve and swear that Lincoln shall be remembered as a despot and if the Union Leagues put up monuments to commemorate his atrocious acts of tyranny, let us blow them down with gunpowder and nitro glycerine!

We will thus show our hatred of a tyrant and learn to future generations that the deeds of a bad man can never be forgotten or glossed over with the praise of hirelings and political prostitutes!

We are glad to note one act of Governor Grover's which ought to be universally commended That not is the veto of the bill to make another appropriation to improve the State lands in Union county A jobs bill if there which richly deserves the fate it has met The $10 000 appropriation by the last Legislature for this purpose is thrown away but it is better not to send any more after it No doubt, however the Governor would have approved the bill but Mr J Jan Miller and others who control the Governor had any interest in the job

It is stated that the King of Prussia is to be made Emperor of Germany This title was once before offered to a King of Prussia, but declined No doubt it will now be accepted The new German Empire will be based on a closer political union than has ever been realized by the several States which form that great country Of course the influence of Prussia will be predominant in united Germany Indeed the term united Germany will now mean little else than extended Prussia

Lager Beer and Religion

An acrimonious war of words is now going on between Rev Theodore Tilton, of New York, and Rev J. D Fulton, of Boston Tilton charged Fulton with drinking several glasses of lager after having preached a sermon, in retaliation for the charge from Mr Fulton that Tilton did not wine Fulton expressed the case to an audience congregation in Tremont Temple Boston, of which church he is the pastor, and here is Tilton's reply

"OFFICE OF THE BOSTON UNION
Monday morning, October 17, 1870

'Rev Justin D Fulton

SIR I have just read with wonder the report in the New York papers of your remarks to your Boston congregation yesterday on the issue pending between you and me These reports, assuming them to be correct, compel me to say, in point-blank English, that I stand ready to prove—

First That you did go into a lager beer saloon and drink lager beer after preaching and

Second That your narrative of your interview on Saturday last with my informant and myself is as false as your denial of the original charge

Having threatened me with libel, you now announce the withdrawal of the suit This is because you dare not go forward with it I challenge you to meet me in a court of justice "THEODORE TILTON

Fulton is the same amiable creature who when Dickens died, preached a sermon in Boston in which he sentenced him to eternal hell for drinking wine

Exact Results of Recent Elections

[From the New York Tribune, October 21]

So the Pennsylvania delegation in the next Congress will stand 13 straight Republicans, 1 independent Republican and 10 Democrats while the present delegation is composed of 18 Republicans and 6 Democrats It is intimated that Messrs Cessna Morrell and Armstrong may contest the election, but on what grounds we are not advised

In Ohio the Congress delegation stands relatively the same as at present 14 Republicans and five Democrats, we have lost two districts the Third and Fourth and have gained two, the First and Ninth

In Indiana we have lost one member Gen Lew Wallace being beaten in the Seventh District by Mahlon D Mason Democrat The the delegation will stand 6 Republicans to 5 Democrats, instead of 7 to 4 as at present

Iowa re-elects her entire Republican delegation of six, according to our latest returns and Mr John Taffe is re-elected by a hand some majority in Nebraska So the Democracy seem to have six or possibly seven more members from the five States which held elections on the 8th inst than they have in the present Congress

COLOR BLINDNESS IN RAILROAD EMPLOYES —To Dalton and Herschel belong the credit of first directing attention to persons suffering from color blindness, who may even themselves be in happy ignorance of the fact because of this peculiar condition of vision not necessarily defective to the eye or interfering with the ordinary requirements of sight We understand that those practicing oculists who examine men for employment upon railways and who take the trouble of testing whether the person before them suffers from color-blindness or not discover in it no unusual fact to find them erroneous in recognizing certain color rays and that the shades wherein most errors are red, yellow green and blue—the red being mistaken for yellow by some the yellow for green the pale green for cloudy white and the blue for black the very shade which all persons working upon or connected with railways, or holding situations wherein colored lights are employed, as in vessels at sea or light houses, should be perfect in as a mistake might prove disastrous to many Indeed very few persons are perfect in their color vision Dr Wilson who is an authority upon the subject states that one person in every eighteen is color blind in some marked degree and that one in every fifty five confounds red with green Any one of this fifty five must needs be a dangerous person if entrusted with the working of colored signals accordingly the railroad companies to test persons practically, through their medical officer the conduction of men in the operations of color blindness exists we know education of the eye to detect it will not improve it We know a gentleman who always recognized light red as violet and when lightning existed in the atmosphere the flash always assumed a violet hue to him Men then who place the clerk of a steamer on watch signal wheers and railway guards should be even above suspicion of being colored for and obvious reasons and to any of danger their efficiency should be properly tested Medical Record

A SUBTERRANEAN SEA —This account is from the Council Bluffs (Iowa) Nonpareil Oct 6th

On Thursday the laborers of the parties who have been boring for salt water for the last eighteen months in Lincoln the capital city of Nebraska were crowned with success At the depth of 600 feet below the surface in a stratum of sandstone a load of the purest subterranean sea of salt water was struck and the briny torrent came struggling up around the auger, and shot into the air some eight or ten feet It has since flowed strongly and steadily and with great force and increasing strength, forming a briny rivulet It is believed by the experts who have seen the flow that when the auger is withdrawn and tubing inserted a stream of water will be projected from the well to the hight of fifty feet making it the most magnificent artesian well of salt water in the world

The States man thinks that the action of the Chinese in this city in putting up the price of sawing wood to so high a figure doesn't tally with the Democratic howl that these pagans would cheapen labor and ruin the workingmen

POLITICAL NOTES

Senator Thayer's friends assert that the recent election in Nebraska settles his re-election to the Senate

One of the most decisive political revolutions of the year is in the Ninth Ohio District where Dickinson Democrat had 1 645 majority two years ago and Foster Republican has 1 161 majority now

In the Fifth Congressional District of Maryland where there are very many negro voters, the Democrats "cordially invite all voters without distinction of color" to attend their meetings Negro votes they deem worth having in that locality but they will probably get few of them

Wendell Phillips is conducting his political campaign in Massachusetts with great vigor Massachusetts has never before had such a stirring campaign as Wendell Phillips proposes to inaugurate for have no fear of the election before his eyes as he evidently does not care whether he is elected Governor or not he does not hesitate to tell political truths

A Washington correspondent says The October elections have considerably demoralized the Carl Schurz coalition in Missouri The St Louis Republic in attacks the St Louis Democrat one of the other elements in the coalition for rejoicing over the defeat of the Democrats in Pennsylvania Ohio, and Indiana A Federal officer, just arrived from Missouri states that it is very doubtful whether the Democrats when it comes to voting will support the dissatisfied Republican ticket

The Toledo Commercial, speaking of Mr Campbell's claim of election to Congress in the Third District of Ohio, says 'It is well understood that General Schenck has taken, and will take, no initiatory steps toward a contest." It adds: "That, in fact, he has no desire to serve in Congress another term, but it is not probable that he will so far resist the policy and wishes of his friends as to forbid proceedings in contest, if they see fit to commence them, which they probably will do

THE TERRITORIES

Wm Abbott has been tried for killing a man named Hannor, near Boise City and acquitted

The Idaho Legislature will assemble at Boise City next month to draw their four dollars a day and spend the winter

There has been five days racing at Boise City, mostly scrub stock but like the Library Lottery, it afforded something to bet on, and several thousand dollars changed hands

The editor of a Montana paper has been shown a copy of the Ulster County Gazette (Virginia), dated January 4, 1800, which contains an account of the death and burial of George Washington

The Montana Northwest says that the four men arrested at Louisville last July charged with the murder of Allard at Wolf Lodge, started for Lewiston on the 9th inst in custody of Deputy Sheriff Curry of Nez Perce county, on a requisition from the Governor of Idaho They were under a strong guard and will, no doubt, be safely lodged in jail at Lewiston

From the Boise Statesman Jas Toogood, whom everybody in Oregon and many in Idaho know as the long time host of the Grave Creek House in Southern Oregon has made his appearance among us—has come to stay For several years he has been trying to make himself contented in Illinois, where they raise seven bushels of wheat to the acre—spring wheat at that—and sometimes have good sleighing by the middle of October But it was no go He couldn't stand it and he packed himself up, family and all, and turned his steps toward the Pacific side again

A rather stagey incident is elaborated in Orleans A graceful, beautiful peasant girl of 17 rushes wildly into the Church of Sainte-Croix, and passionately implores the priest instantly to bless the crown of pearls she carries He refuses but she begs with such touching emotion in her lovely face that he forthwith relents like a sensible man Whereupon the damsel proceeds to the mairie and entreats of the Mayor permission to mount a ladder and place the crown upon the head of the statue of Joanne D Arc in the square Surprise firmness on the part of the pretty girl final consent and long ladder carefully placed against the statue regardless of the immense crowd which gathers hourly and curiously regardless of her danger as she plants the young girl ascends and crowns the statue applause and tearfully the crowd dance of triumph by small boys girl decorations and announces her intention to proceed immediately to Paris to put herself on a horse at the head of the army, at the post of danger and of hope "Joanne D Arc she observes has appeared to me and commanded me to save France I am going to save France Th most skeptical do not dare to smile brave men become pale with emotion as all interrogation she responds simply Joanne D Arc has commanded me to save France' and off she starts for Paris by the extremely prosaic and unimspiring conveyance of a railroad carriage, leaving everybody in an ecstacy of admiration and credulity

A little discussion recently commenced in a tavern of a village near Wilhelmshohe regarding the present occupant of that palace Apart from the general company a lady was sitting whose face was muffled up and who evidently wished to keep her distance A German woman began to abuse Napoleon in the most unmeasured terms—he had been a tyrant to France and to Germany a scourge. Took at the tens of thousands of fine honest young fellows that through his fault were now lying dead on the battle field How many women had he made widows how many children orphans If who long the old lady would have proceeded in this eloquent strain had she met no obstacle it is impossible to tell Unfortunately however she was stopped very short The muffled lady rose up and putting over to the reviler of Napoleon a mantle intered to her a number of by no means gentle Ilws Assailant and assailed screamed with equal lustiness the male members of the party began some to laugh some to shout Help At last the attention of "mine host" was attracted He rushed into the room separated the combatants and began deeply to ruminate with the muffled lady After some time she consented to leave his house and after giving change with her departure to which in quality was rest red the monkey uniform and insignia that his guest was one of the Emperor's servants just arrived from Paris and on his way to Wilhelmshohe

A correspondent writes from Paris "The society of the Prussians is something remarkable and every day brings out some new trick While writing the last paragraph above I heard about to the streets and saw a crowd of soldiers running after a milk cart In less than a minute the cart was surrounded by troops and the street filled with people The milkman was a Prussian and was distributing cartridges in his milk cans The way he staggered in carrying one of these cans into a suspected house led to an inquiry and while he was being watched the man saw that he was suspected, and drove away But he was captured and taken off to the Mairie Beyond doubt these cartridges are for some of the guns which 'the people' have demanded so loudly Such facts show us why the Prussians have spoken so confidently of finding help in Paris when they began the attack.

A despatch from Washington 19th of October has this, The Commissioner of Patents was engaged yesterday in hearing the arguments of Messrs Coombs and Gordon, attorneys, representing the interests of Mr Singer, of sewing machine fame It appears that Mr Singer patented a new system of feeding sewing machines which feels the same through the slot in the table and for which he received a patent. He now claims an extension of the same upon the expiration of the patent for the improvement which takes place November 4th As nearly all the machines now made take the advantage of the idea, it is worth some four or five millions to the patentee The Commissioner has not yet rendered a decision, and it is looked for with much interest

The grandchildren of Napoleon's brothers are mostly young One of them, however, is Cardinal Bonaparte, a man of 42

The impression which this family has produced upon the world, without considering that made by Napoleon himself, is one of remarkable vigor—a kind of vigor which does not seem to be dying out and a power of self assertion which amounts almost to heroism Whenever there has been a chance they have gone in for it They are the enemies of kings and the old dynasties Children of the revolution they are one and all, revolutionary Imperialism seems grafted in them, by some kind of curious Nemesis of fate but not to be natural to them and one cannot help suspecting that, even in the crash of their own fortunes, their hearts are bounding at the renewed hope of a republic. Cæsar is fallen, and Cæsarism is, perhaps, dead but the world has not heard the last of the Bonapartes

SATURDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 4 1870
CITY.

POOR THIN HOUSES.—There are several reasons why a more particular attention should be paid to the numbering of houses in this city. It is a metropolitan and now that we are a metropolitan dwelling in a metropolitan city great many a metropolitan police whose head is be expected to be made to do duty in finding out all things about the tone of a new estate as possible in the most convenient not only to strangers but to the business men. The old fash method of describing the business place of Tom Jones is about played out. There are many Tim Stokes and John Joneses now to that particular way of describing the local of Stokes perfectly clear and unmistakable, besides, it is not everybody that knows Stokes and John Jones are no longer huge who is a small peddle with a few onion we pretty takes any more note of where those Tim Stokes or John Joneses may be, active capitalists so called live or earn by the sweat of other people's brows by the Browns, or the Smithses or Tom Nokes must now describe other man. Tom Nokes must now describe by some of street and number or his is liable to remain a mystery during which is liable to change to those who come upon to transact business through a special Providence. As in the foregoing reasons there is another "Ordinance entitled" See Ordinance No 125 which provides that there shall be a system of numbering the houses etc. It is hoped that when convenience necessarily of the point in one direction, here should be about the matter

A Balloon Battle

The following extraordinary statement is published in the Paris correspondence of the London Standard from one of the correspondents with the seat of war which has to was carried to Brussels by extraordinary occasion

PARIS Oct 31 Nadar returned yesterday to Paris His return was not effected without much trouble although his ballon was found the day following since his departure from Tours But I will narrate the facts in the chronological order He left Paris at 6 o'clock in the morning with 3 travellers and 400 kilogrammes of dispatches Half an hour after the balloon was seen to disappear in the direction of Creil Nadar was seen to descend first near Clermont with the French national colors Immediately an other national flag floated from the car of the other balloon Nadar hurrahs and rests for a short while proceeding from the garden of the first greeted by the appearance of the two arrivals who said all was gradually approached When they were within a short distance of each other a lottery ticket was thrown in the air followed by a second and a third The Prussians were at first thought to be demonstrations or signs of victory until Nadar was seen to fling him a little the sleeve of his balloon and to cling to its sides During this time the other aeronaut continued discharging shots at Nadar which were traced in the sky by their luminous effects The Intrepid descended rapidly and it appeared to the spectators below that some incomprehensible event had taken place above But no sooner had the French flag in the neighboring balloon had come to it had become evident that a black and yellow standard was observed to be floating in its place Then all was explained Treason Has a Prussian balloon He has fired upon the Intrepide! Nadar is lost were the cries that burst simultaneously from the French people But Nadar was safe for he was seen to descend rapidly in his car and the balloon too nearly reach the earth He sent out the ballasts and reascended having stopped the hole made in his balloon by his adversary Then shots were rapidly fired from the Intrepid into the Prussian balloon which one losing all power descended to the earth with giddy velocity A detachment of Uhlans who were in the plain and who had been following the aerial combatants through out the exciting struggle rushed forward and surrounding the balloon received their champion—God knows in what condition and then all hastened off at full speed to the Prussian advanced posts In the meantime Nadar descended safely at Charenton where he still remains

Marriages in the North

HOW THE HUDSON'S BAY IFFICERS GET WIVES
A SIX WEEKS JOURNEY TO A HUSBAND

To the Editor of the New York Sun—

SIR Your narrative of a woman who goes a thousand miles away to marry a man she never saw reminds me of the cool and unceremonious way the officials of the Hudson's Bay Company have of getting their wives especially those who live in the most northern part of what was formerly known as the Hudson's Bay Company territories such as the McKenzie Athabasca and English river Districts In these districts marriageable women are few and far between except, indeed the pure Indian women, who formerly were considered good enough to satisfy the fancies of the gentlemen of the service

Since the Red River District however, has been settled with Europeans, Canadians, and half breeds there are many fair white and half breed women to be found, more suitable to the fancies of the gentlemen of the northern districts and their tastes have therefore undergone a change They will not degrade themselves now by intermarrying with the pure Indians, but generally send down word to some friend residing in the settlement that they are in want of a wife and beg him to select one to the best of his ability, placing entire confidence in his choice

The recommendation and choice of the young lady are generally made through the missionary as the clergy, of course are supposed to know the character of their fair flock

As soon as all the necessary preliminaries have been arranged the young lady takes her departure for her northern home with the first brigade of boats that leaves the settlement for that district After a six or eight weeks voyage, she meets her future lord and husband, and gets married to him, after a half hour's acquaintance by the minister who is awaiting her arrival

The distance is perhaps not so great as that of our fair friend who went off to China but if one takes it into consideration that these voyages of six weeks to the McKenzie River District are made in open row boats with nothing but the open stern sheets to sit in during the day and a canvas tent for the night to sleep under with the disagreeable accompaniment of myriads of mosquitoes to torment them the whole of the long voyage the boldness of the undertaking and experiment of accepting a husband in that crude fashion is soon what more torturous and during than most of the young ladies of these more southern climes would like to hazard their happiness on

This fashion of getting wife chosen for them is by no means uncommon among the officials of the Hudson's Bay Company's service especially those who are quartered in the very remote districts referred to

The Bonaparte Family

From Our Own Correspondent

[illegible] which [illegible] if not useful and [illegible] for the solution of [illegible] hereditary genius. [illegible] respected and [illegible] of five hundred years furnishing lawyers [illegible] and soldiers to the church but never going beyond the bounds of mediocrity or showing symptoms of [illegible] than a quiet [illegible] improve their station [illegible] interesting to our readers to [illegible] or refreshed by the chaff [illegible] the first of newly [illegible]

Francis Bonaparte probably he [illegible] name with the [illegible] of Corsica early in the sixteenth century. He [illegible] rank as one of the nobility of the island and [illegible] was the first of half a dozen of his name [illegible] after him and to [illegible] up each step [illegible] his father left [illegible] Corsica this was a trustworthy [illegible] gift with much perseverance than brains and did still [illegible] would think to a perpetuity [illegible] honors and small successes a highly respectable family belonging to the best society of the place and with no other ambition [illegible] keep their own

Charles Bonaparte and Letitia his wife broke through this monotony by giving birth to eight children who so far deprived from the family traditions that they all [illegible] as a —one of them to become an Emperor and the greatest of modern conquerors, three to become Kings, one a Queen one a regent, sovereign, and one a Princess. This unexampled suddenness of fortune sprang it is true, from the extraordinary genius of one brother alone. But it is not the less true that the whole family were endowed with far more than the usual amount of energy and ability. Some of this again has been transmitted to their children. Of the twenty six grandchildren to Charles and Letitia the has received the splendors and the misfortunes too—of the first empire eight princes of them have become authors of [illegible] two being, each in his own line of great distinction, while in none of them has the ever appeared any appearance of weakness or folly in the direction of weakness. It is only a hundred years since the first of them—Joseph—was born, and only ten years since the youngest of them—Jerome—died. With in a compass of a single life they have governed France twice each time with improvements in the material resources of the country quite disproportioned to the length of the reign and the difficulties they have encountered. They have formed alliances with the noblest houses in Europe. They have been, for good and for evil perpetually in the mouths of men. They have fallen hopelessly, and have risen unexpectedly. They have had disastrous reverses and splendid successes. They have been alternately the sport and the spoiled children of fortune.

The brothers and sisters of Napoleon were not the puppets and tools the world took them for. They all possessed ability just short of the highest, while perhaps one was in his own way a man whose daring and clearness of brain were equal to those of his greater brother.

The least able of them were the eldest and the youngest—Joseph and Jerome. Yet Joseph possessed a certain dignity and resolution which were alone sufficient to make him a far better King than Spain had been for centuries, while Jerome, who meant to be a King indeed, attacked abuses and swept them away with a vigor which delighted and astonished his Westphalians.

Lucien is, beyond all comparison the brother whose character is the brightest and best of the whole family. Filled with lofty and noble thoughts destitute of unworthy ambition, always regretting the republic which came into existence just in time to fire the dreams of his early manhood, he was the only member of the family who never surrendered his republican principles, who refused a throne while, while he followed his elder brother with an affection which nothing could shake never suffered his dictation, and preserved his independence. He too, was the brother whom Napoleon seems always to have respected. After the fall of the empire he alone had no ruin of his own to lament no errors to repent. Happier than his brothers in his domestic life, and happy in his children, he retired to Italy to spend the afternoon and evening of his life in literary pursuits. He was a poet novelist an historian, an antiquarian and above all a Republican.

Louis, his next brother, without his spirit and genius, partook of his character. He too, was a poet in a small way the inventor of an unsuccessful method of reproducing classical metres. He was a novelist too having written a romance on Dutch life and the author of several historical treatises. Of all the family, he was perhaps, the least useful to his brother. Too weak to disobey boldly he only obeyed partially. And when he was King of Holland, he fondly imagined that the interests of his subjects were more sacred than the interests of France, and dared to overrule the decrees of the Emperor. Finding that this course was impracticable he had the grace to resign the crown, and to retire into private life. He was forced into marriage with Hortense, for whom he never pretended any affection, and he had the misery of seeing his eldest surviving son—there had been an elder, who died in infancy—die in his arms, at the age of 27, while his younger, the Emperor Louis Napoleon, was forbidden by the Italian Minister a passport which should enable him to close his dying father's eyes.

Of the daughters, all were beautiful, all were brave, all were clever and able. Elisa, the Grand Duchess of Tuscany, setting aside her husband, ruled entirely herself with an ability and power of organization to which her subjects were little accustomed. Caroline, the wife of the gallant and unfortunate Murat, knew how to reign with dignity and to retire with dignity. Pauline, the beautiful Princess Borghese, model of Canova's Venus, was the favorite sister of Napoleon. On her he lavished all the affection in his nature. She, in return, was the first to go the Elb to comfort him. She sent him all her diamonds during the Hundred Days. These by the way were appropriated by some unknown hand in the confusion. She never ceased vainly asking for permission to go to St Helena. And when the news of her brother's death arrived she fell into a languor of grief from which she never recovered.

Joseph left two daughters only. Both of them married cousins one of them Zenaide Lucien, Prince of Canino. She was an accomplished and clever woman, and used to help her husband in his scientific pursuits. She translated Schiller.

Lucien left eleven children some of whom are still living. Two daughters both [illegible] married English noblemen. Madame Rattazzi is the daughter of Letitia Bonaparte, Lady Wyse, two other daughters married Italian noblemen, and one is a nun. The eldest son, now dead, was the celebrated Lucien, Prince of Canino. He was in the first rank as a natural philosopher; his researches and discoveries in geology ornithology and botany being of the greatest value. He spent his life chiefly in Italy advancing with equal ardor the cause of science and that of Republicanism now presiding over a scientific congress now heading a movement at Rome. He died in 1847.

His brother Louis Lucien, is equally distinguished. As a linguist there is not perhaps, in the world one who can approach him. Some idea of his knowledge may be gained from the fact that he publish [illegible] the parable of the Sower and the Seed in no less than seventy two dialects and languages the Songs of Solomon in all the Celtic languages the song of the Three Children in eleven Basque dialects the whole Bible in Basque besides treatises on the Etruscan language and many others. He is an LL D of Oxford and has certain honorary titles from the Emperor.

Two other sons of Lucien still survive. The luckless Pierre shooter of Victor Noir and Antoine who has no ambition and has done nothing.

The second son of Louis died as we have seen at the age of 27. He had time in his short life to publish the translation of Tacitus 'Agricola' and a history of Florence to invent half a dozen machines and to head a revolutionary movement. He left no children. The third son of Louis was the Emperor. Historians will, at least, admit his genius, when the time comes to judge him calmly. Prince Napoleon is the son of Je-
